Background

In the reign of the two previous emperors, Degenerus and Nero, relations between Rome and Egypt dramatically declined. Skirmishes and battles led to a complete lack of trust. The new emperor, Lustrous Caesar, decided that for the sake of trade, peace had to be restored between the two powerful civilisations. Lustrous sent General Sadisticus Masochismus as an envoy to suggest a peace visit by Cleopatra to Rome. After lengthy negotiations, she agreed. General Trecherus Brutus was sent to Egypt to escort her to Rome. Among her entourage she brought her devoted mute bodyguard, Hung Lo.

To honour Cleopatra a set of games are being held in the arena. Financed by the wealthy senator Copius Potts, these are in the form of a knock out competition. The gladiator Fitass Fukkass has fought his way through to a place in the final. Fitass is a slave belonging to Trecherus Brutus.

The Orgy

To entertain Cleopatra, Lustrous Caesar's wife, the Empress Messalina, decided to host an orgy at the palace, with Cleopatra as the guest of honour. The orgy was held on the "Ides of March", a festival day to celebrate Mars, the god of war. No expense was spared and Rome's most notorious madam, Domina Atrixa, was hired to organise the event. Domina, a shrewd businesswoman, owns a chain of brothels throughout Rome.

The orgy started with a banquet. Serving the food were the finest male and female prostitutes from Domina's brothels. During this banquet Cleopatra introduced the guests to her pet snake, Venomina. After the banquet, those guests who wished could wander into the orgy area and take their pleasure with either the brothel boys and girls or each other.

Those guests who did not wish to participate in sexual pleasures had the facility of walking onto the balcony roof garden and looking out over the view of Rome.

The Orgy Area

The orgy area itself was made up of carefully laid out couches, surrounded by greenery, pot plants and statues, designed to give participants a little privacy if required. It was therefore very difficult to keep track of who was where at any particular time.

A six foot high plinth lay to one side of the orgy area, and on this was a statue of the god Mars, allowing him to look down at his orgy. On either side of him were lit braziers. These were burning heady incenses to help the mood along.

Two washrooms, accessible through open archways, led off the orgy area. Here guests could freshen up after their exertions before returning for more.

Around the perimeter of the orgy area were several rooms containing special facilities. A five man bed, a bath of asses milk, two dark rooms and a sling were just some of the amenities available. For privacy, all these rooms had doors.

There were also two private boudoirs, where couples could copulate in seclusion.

Tragedy

The orgy unexpectedly ended when piercing screams rang out and the Empress Messalina appeared in the orgy area. Through hysterical sobs she was able to make out that she had found General Trecherus Brutus dead. Further investigation discovered the General in the bondage room. He was naked and bound hand and foot to a chair. A scarf was knotted tightly around his neck and he appeared to have been strangled.

Lustrous was immediately suspicious. Two Roman Generals have already died in suspicious circumstances this year. In January General Corpus Delectus was found dead in his bed. In February General Carcass Freshus died suddenly at a feast. Both Corpus and Carcass were distant cousins of Lustrous. This third death is one too many and Lustrous is determined to discover how Trecherus Brutus died.

The orgy area has been sealed. All those who attended are being held in the banqueting area. And none of them will be leaving until Lustrous has discovered how Trecherus Brutus met his death...

YOU ARE INVITED TO TAKE THE ROLE OF

I am Lustrous Caesar, aged 42, Emperor of Rome. I inherited the throne from my father, Nero. He inherited it from his father, Degenerus. The reigns of both Degenerus and Nero were disastrous for Rome. Both were bad emperors, who cared only for their own pleasure, and while they ruled, Rome became a corrupt and decadent city.

I am trying to rectify the damage. I believe that total power should not be in the hands of one man. I therefore rule with advice from the senate. My principal adviser is Copius Potts. I also believe that every man, no matter how base he be born, deserves the chance to be the best that he can. Therefore I believe in greater rights and freedoms for slaves. Not complete freedom though. That is a step too far.

Although I believe in honesty and fair dealing, I am also politically astute enough to realise that sometimes these virtues must be cast aside. So when needs be, I can be cunning and ruthless.

I am also a man of significant sexual appetite. Indeed the first four letters of my name spell "lust". My taste is for young flesh. Either male or female will do. At the current time I am particularly enamoured with the sweet peachy charms of my lyre player Byronicus.
